Independent voters would support Democratic candidates on account of the President's appeal. Republicans insist, and have had ample documentary evidence in the form of sheaves of letters to prove it, that the net effect of the President's appeal, and its restitant lifting the lid on political discussion, has been to close the ranks of Republicans, will bring out a large Republican vote on Tuesday, and turn to the Republican side many Democrats who were disside many Democrats who were disof the nation, an appeal which they be-lieve might be construed to impugn the entire loyalty of the Republicans in Congress, who have supported and the war measures more wholeheartedly than

In the House apparently a very considerable shakeup is due on Tuesday, with the Republicans coming out of the fight with an assured membership of 228, the Democrats an assured membership of 189, and 18 seats which may go to either party. That is what shocked the country. It came as a blow in the face that a President of the United States could for any conceivable reason descend so far from his high estate. His doing so for the unmistakable purpose of furthering his own towering ambition was felt instinctively as a reflection upon the re-public itself. The mere suggestion of setting up in America an autocracy, unembarrassed by duly chosen repre-sentatives of the people, while demand-ing the obliteration of despotic rule broughout the world, was so glaring an incongruity that it could not fail to be regarded everywhere as a repreach to the whole country: The people were shamed that their President should hold their intelligence, their pride and their fidelity to their time honored institutions in so

TAFT WOULD CLINCH NEW WILSON CALL SURRENDER DEMAND

Tells New Hampshire Voters Sure Way Is to Elect Republican Congress.

On Never a More Partisan Administration Than Wilson's, Ex-President Asserts.

President Taft urged New Hampshire voters in a speech here to-night to elect Republicans to Congress so that President Wilson would not be allowed to make a peace by negotiation.

Mr. Taft objected to the President's candidates for Congress on the assumption that a Democratic majority in both party alignments. houses would make the President the nation's unembarramed spokesman in affairs at home and abroad.

"The character of the President's appeal," said Mr. Taft, "discloses his utter years equal to that of the Hohenzollerns in war and peace and accounting and reconstruction.

"He asks the American people to en trust him with unlimited control over the settlement of a peace that will affect them for a century, when he has given many evidences of a wish to pureue a course against which their faces are set like flint, to wit, peace by negotia-War Wackly calls the President severely tions. His appeal for unrestrained power is unprecedented in the annals of the country, and it is as unrepublican as it is unnecessary."

Grave Questions to Decide.

Speaking of the settlement of ques-tions of industry, transportation, Gov-ernment ownership and operation, labor and capital after the war Mr. Taft said these measures needed "the deliberation of an independent and courageous Con-gress, not under the control of the Executive and not subject to accept Executive and not subject to academic ideals and theories, except as these are modified and made practicable by a con-sideration of existing conditions and a practical knowledge of what can be achieved in human nature's daily regi

"Never in peace or war," continued Mr. Taft, have we had a more partisan administration than during this critical period in the nation's life.

"The execuive organization has bee defective in many things and much has not been done which should have been done had the arms of the Administration been at once open to American gentus available in the particular field of war production, and to American statesmen trained in diplomatic and world affairs.

"The present Administration has led but little in this war. It has been pushed into many important steps which Taft reviewed and commented at length upn Mr. Wilson's fourteen points for peace negotiations.

For Unconditional Surrender. "To Austria's first note, which was note of inquiry as to terms upon which peace could be had, an abrupt reply was made," Mr. Taft continued. "This curt rejoinder was welcomed unanimously by the American people with one exception and that was by the editor of the New York Times, and he has been explaining the mistake he made ever since. The Austrian note was avowedly a joint ex-pression of Austria and Germany. The reason why its rejection was so approved was because it was thought to indicate a firm attitude on the part of the Govern-close the bargain then, and assume to bind the United States and the Allies to that which must be a negotiated peace. In the interval following this German answer, there came a ground swell of protest from the American people that penetrated the seclusion of the White House and compelled a halt." Mr. Taft, after enlarging upon the American trend of sentiment, declared: "How, then, can the attitude of our Government be made to square with this demand for unconditional sur-jender? By the return of a Republican Congress in the election of next Tuesday. This will push the Freedent, as nothing else can. This will be an expression of the popular will that he pression of the popular will that cannot ignore."

PERIL IN ONE MAN POWER BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

Fall Shows Record to Reply to Message Opposing His . Reelection.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- The shortes political campaign in the country's history is now in the homestretch. This was indicated to-night when the Democratic National Committee in a forma statement claimed victory for the Demoappeal for the election of Democratic crats both in House and Senate by increased majorities over the present party alignments.

Republican leaders when apprised of the Democratic claims said the President's campaign managers were chasing rainbows. To-night Republican leaders here in constant communication wit their associates in New York and else where appeared to be more confiden misunderstanding of our constitutional form of government. The appeal is a Senate unless a brilliant climax of the demand for power during the next two of the election should upwet their calof the election should upset their cal culations.

In White House circles there is every indication of "something coming." But whether this is to be another political proclamation from the President or an announcement from the diplomats abroad that is calculated by his friends as havng the same effect not the slightest clue is given.

The Republicans betrayed some perturbation that a new political blast from the White House hinging on the situation abroad may be forthcoming in the last hours of this bitter campaign. Many Republican leaders were convinced today that Sunday or Monday an an-nouncement from the White House was to be expected proclaiming the near adent of peace and carrying the catch phrase "He has got us out of the war" would be issued. With this firmly in their minds the Republicans have set about to controvert it with a barrage protection designed to anticipate the Democratic clamor that might arise and thereby neutralize its effect. A Repub-lican statement of some kind bearing on Claims by Democrats.

The Democrats were first under the wire with their election claims to-day in the following statement issued by Homer S. Cummings, acting chairman of the Democratic National Committee: "Our advices from every State point to a sweeping Democratic victory. The Dem-ocratic majority in the next Senate will be increased and we will control the House of Representatives by a substantial majority. Reliable estimates of net gains by the Democrats in the House range from thirty to sixty. The tide is running strongly in our favor, especi-ally in the Middle West and far Western States, with a pronounced drift toward Democratic candidates in every State." Outside of Mr. Cumming's election prediction the outstanding feature of the political situation was the further evi-dence that there will be forthcoming a continuation of Presidential backfire on Republican Senatorial candidates. The latest letter which it appears the President has sent in pursuance of this object demanded the return of a Democrat in place of Albert B. Fall, New Mexico. It appeared to-day that W. P. Metcalfe. socialist candidate for Senator and a Wilson supporter, had sent the President the following telegram asking for his views on Senator Fail: "Political friends of Senator Pall are claiming that he has earnestly and sym-pathetically given your Administration his support during the war. It is also claimed that his reelection would be satisfactory to you and that you would b willing to depend upon his support in set-tling our foreign relations at the conclu-sion of the war. Will you be kind enough to indicate your view regarding these matters for the benefit of those citizens of New Mexico who want to give you their whole support in this crisis?"

Answer by President.

To this the President responded under date of October 28:
"Your question whether I would be willing to depend upon Senator Fall's support in settling our foreign relations is easily answered. I would not. He has given such repeated evidence of his extreme hostility to this Administration that I would be ignoring his whole course of action if I did. No one who wishes to sustain me can intelligently vote for him. If that is the issue the voters of New Mexico wish to vote upon it is easily determined. Senator Fall has been one of the three or four Senate Republicans whose acceptance of White House dictation on all matters of legislation has been consistent. It was Senator Fall who months before the White House determined on the second draft and the broadening of the age limits of the draft to from 18 to 45 years introduced the Fall amendment to the army bill, providing for just such a change. At the time the gressional circles that the Fall amend-ment had not the approval of the War Department, and yet within less than two months of its rejection the second draft law was sent to Congress with a request for immediate enactment, em-bodying to the last detail the Fall ideas. When President Wilson demanded the mactment of the Overman law concentrating in him the power to readjust all Intragovernment relationships, Senator Fall came to the rescue of the measure in the Senate and spoke for the bill and voted as the President wished. Repeatedly on the floor of the Senate Mr. Fall has stated that he was willing to vote for any and every war measure that the President demanded. He was willing to yield every increase of power sought by the President. He followed his willingness without an exception. be was this fact which impelled him in an-swering the Democratic attack to say in as a telegram which he sent Senator Lodge to-day and which Senator Smoot had inserted in the Congressional Record:

"Your wire repeating the President's message to Mr. Metcalf saying among other things in reference to my candi-dacy 'no one who wishes to sustain me can intelligently vote for him' received. In the interests of Democratic december and the good name of our countr
